TC23 – Metrology in Food and Nutrition

Scope of the Conference

The general objective is to promote the discussion, the scientific debate and the encounter between the different realities that revolve around the "world of measures", promoting harmonization and integration and addressing the "world of research" to the emerging needs of the civil society and the productive sectors.

Main topics covered by the program

Besides topics closely linked to Metrology (metrological traceability, measurement uncertainty, reference materials, method development and validation), IMEKOFOODS will deal with the different measurement needs for Food Quality & Safety, focusing on the emerging fields of Metrology for Food and Nutrition (authenticity and traceability of raw materials and products, sensory analysis and organoleptic properties, nanotechnologies and nanoparticles, chemometrics). Furthermore main constrains and opportunities related to the implementation of Metrology in food composition dataBase and exposure predictive model development will be deepened.

A specific session dedicated to metrology for food composition analyses will be organized in cooperation with FAO/INFOODS.

The Conference will be organized with invited lectures, oral presentations, posters and round tables.

Technical visits: Visits of ENEA Casaccia Laboratories on 15th October 2014 will be organised on request.
